Newbro's Herpicide

Others Imitate but None Equal

Since the world was new there have been imitators. Great men and remarkable achievements are all imitated to greater or less extent. An attempt at imitation is always a compliment—a tribute to the greatness of the man or the worthiness to the thing imitated.

Herpicide is a Scientific Achievement

The Original Remedy to Kill the Dandruff Germ and Up To Date the Only One That Does It

Others have tried to imitate it, but without success. It stands alone, the peer of all hair preparations. Used as directed, Herpicide removes the dead scalp skin, which is so unsightly and annoying, checks further accumulation by killing the Dandruff Germ, stops falling hair and brings both scalp and hair back to normal health. Unless completely atrophied, the follicles take on new life, manifested by a strong, vigorous growth of hair.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

"The House of the Thousand Candles" Caused Big Stir.

Few plays have created the general stir that has been aroused over "The House of the Thousand Candles," which will be presented at the opera house on Monday night. The four acts are a continual succession of surprises and the situations are widely different from those which have been made use of for stage purposes from time immemorial. Like the book, it overflows with originality, and has been condensed on all sides to be the only real novelty that the stage has known in many seasons. It will be presented by a most capable company and with complete scenic accessories.

"The Call of the North"

Mr. Paul Gilmore comes to the opera house next Thursday in his latest play, "The Call of the North," written by George Broadhurst, and based on Stewart Edward White's novel, "Conjuror's House." Mr. Gilmore's new vehicle, all the scenes of which are laid in the Hudson Bay territory of uppermost Canada, six hundred miles beyond the borders of civilization, is said to be one of the most attractive in which he has appeared since he has been a star. The character of Ned Trent, which Mr. Gilmore im-personates, is that of a vigorous young American who, to avenge the death of his father, starts into the wilds of the Northwest and a host of the regulations of the Hudson Bay company, whose officials rule that picturesque region with despotic power.

At the opening of the play, Ned Trent has been caught for the third time transgressing the rules of the company and is brought before the factor, Galen Allart, for punishment. The penalty usually meted out to offenders of this nature is Trent's real identity, his desire for vengeance on his father's account, his love for Virginia and her devotion to him. The ending is most happy and is said to be quite as surprising as it is salutary. "The Call of the North" is a thorough comedy-drama, and amid all its melodramatic incidents and tense interest there is an abundance of comedy and a strong and fascinating vein of humor in the heroic character of Ned Trent, assumed by Mr. Gilmore. In this play Mr. Broadhurst has displayed his termed "la longue traverse," which means that without weapons and with one day's supplies, the guilty party is turned adrift into the wilderness with certain death staring him in the face ere he can reach the nearest settlement and safety six hundred miles away.

After a stirring scene with the factor of the post, Trent is given the alternative of suffering the punishment or entering the employ of the company which he hates because of its wrongs against his father years before. Knowing that it may mean the sacrifice of his life if he accepts the latter choice, the American absolutely refuses to give up his occupation of free trading, but hustles himself in an endeavor to find means of escape. With the sole object of obtaining a ride through her aid, Trent works upon the feelings of the factor's daughter, Virginia.

In order to gain her assistance, he professes a deep affection for the girl, but later, realizing the dishonesty of his motive, he confesses his real motive and falls in love with her. In his attempt to escape, he is recaptured and taken again before the factor, where in a stormy scene the entire story reaches its climax.

usual genius as a playwright and given it many of the attractive elements that made his "The Man of the Hour" and other excellent plays successful.

Mr. Gilmore is assisted by a supporting cast that has been pronounced most capable, and "The Call of the North" is to be seen here with the same elaborate mounting of scenery, costumes and effects used in the runs of this play in New York, Boston, Chicago and elsewhere last season. The offering is under the direction of A. J. Spencer, who has surrounded Mr. Gilmore with some notable players.

Operating for the Mummified Touch.

A base ball player had two fingers of his right hand pretty badly banged up in practice, and one his way home from the grounds he dropped into a doctor's office to have them attended to.

"Doctor," he asked anxiously as he was leaving, "when this paw of mine beaks will I be able to play the piano?"

"Certainly you will," the doctor assured him.

"Well, then, you're a wonder, Doc. I never could before."—Everybody's Magazine.

CANNON MAY BE BOWLED OVER BY AUTUMN GIRL

Fight Coming on His Avowed Stand

ON CURRENCY SYSTEM

Is at Variance with President Taft. Conflicting Revises the Discussion over His Re-election to the Speakership.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Official Washington is very much impressed with the radically different views of the subject of currency legislation set forth in speeches delivered by President Taft and Speaker Cannon. The president declared that the present banking and monetary system was a patched-up affair, and satisfied nobody, and he discussed in a friendly way the central bank of issue plan which apparently is favored by Senator Aldrich, chairman of the monetary commission. The speaker, addressing the American Bankers' association, criticized the suggestion for the establishment of a central bank of issue, declaring that the present currency system is best suited to the country's needs.

The belief prevails here that when Speaker Cannon arrives in Washington next winter he will find himself at odds with the administration over the subject of currency reform. Congress created the national monetary commission with a view to revising the banking and currency laws, and that body has been actively at work for many months preparing reports upon which it is expected action will be taken by the national legislature. The indications are, judging from President Taft's utterances, that the speaker will be bowled over if he attempts to stand in the way of this programme.

The situation presented by a conflict between the president and the speaker on the subject of currency reform will naturally tend to revise the discussion as to Mr. Cannon's chances for re-election as the presiding officer of the House. President Taft began his administration on the best of terms with the speaker. In the closing days of the special session of Congress a controversy developed over the tariff, with the result that Mr. Cannon in his contest with the president lost out. It is apparent that banking and currency reform will be strongly urged upon Congress by the administration. Speaker Cannon insists that there will be no such legislation at the coming session of Congress. Whether legislation along this line be recommended by the president this winter depends altogether upon the monetary commission. If the commission urges immediate action it undoubtedly will have the support of the president, despite the opposition threatened by the speaker of the House.

NEED TIMBER FOR TIES.

The Railroads Alarmed by Present Shortage.

Washington, Sept. 18.—That the railroads are confronted with a short supply in the supply of timber for ties, and that they will take measures to support the forest conservation movement, is indicated by the warning issued by the Roadmasters and Maintenance of Way association of America, which is holding its convention in Washington. The discussion of the best method for heavy traffic occupied the attention of the delegates yesterday. "Confronted as we are with a rapidly depleting supply of suitable timber, it is obligatory that the railroads aid in conserving as far as possible the present limited area in which the timber exists," is the sentiment in which the committee on the comparative value of ballast materials drew attention to the threatened shortage. The report of the committee, which declares that stone ballast, crushed and properly screened, in final results proved most valuable for railroads carrying heavy traffic at high speed that is now universally expected, was accepted. It also recommends locomotive cinders as the best for sidetrack ballast on account of its weed killing qualities. Next in value as a ballast to stone, the committee recommended in the order named, furnace slag, good gravel, chert and burnt gumbo.

INCREASED RATE ON LEMONS.

California Growers Angered by Action of The Southern Pacific.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has been unofficially advised that there has been an increase by the Southern Pacific in the freight rates on lemons, the effect of which will be either wholly or partly to beat the lemon producers of California out of the benefits of the increased tariff of one-half cent per pound which Congress lately allowed.

The lemon producers raised an outcry because they said they were being beaten out in New York and the west by the Sicilian lemons. Despite strong increased duty. Now, it appears, the benefit of the increase goes to the Southern Pacific. California fruit producers are understood to be much angered. From what is known here, the freight rate increase is 15 cent per pound.

She is Natural Once More, and Just a Bit Military

THE "BEAN POLE" GONE

Jewel Garniture on Gown—Eyes Allowed at Large Once Again, for New Hat Is Intended to Cover the Hair.

New York, Sept. 18.—The New York girl this autumn is a bit of a queen and a bit of a soldier, and a whole lot of other things—but, best of all, she's a real live woman once more. Broomesticks and beanpoles and toothpicks are out—and hips are in. You may put your Directoire corset-cage on the ash heap.

Once more you are to be given the chance to look like a natural woman, and sensible folks had 'em. The straight line, touching all the way down from shoulder to knee, is a thing of the past.

Once upon a time every primitive Greek people used to take a log of wood and carve a head and shoulders from the top of it, leaving the rest of the log untouched. They called the result the beautiful statue of a beautiful woman. In the autumn of 1908, primitive Paris and New York were doing their best to duplicate this ugly person in "living models," who showed head and shoulders obviously feminine above a figure that resembled the straight and slender trunk of a birch tree.

But—sheer up—the worst is over. The autumn girl of 1909 is going to be—why, frankly, a delightful huggable person! She's going to have such a nice, trim little waist in just the right place—which isn't under her arms nor down at her knees. And, of course, to show off the trimness of the waistline she has simply got to be allowed a proper curve. She will wear her hips!

Like to The Fairy Queen.

Now as to the rest of her—the quite, quite wonderful rest of her. She's to be a queen, a beautiful, fairy tale queen. For in fairy stories the queen always had heaps of money in the treasury and wore jewels all over their clothes. That's what the autumn girl will do. The jewel garniture is the new, beautiful and particularly universal feature of all her "glad" gowns. Maybe it's turquoise set in tiny chains of shimmering gold and falling in graceful loops and curves all over the front of the party frock. Maybe the jewels are emeralds, or, for the demure, milky, white pearls. Always there are quantities of them, covering corsage and shoulders.

Little Miss 1908 couldn't go in for such gaudiness and get a fresh start. Compact fitness of outline! She even "skipped" in any beautiful material said she wanted "clinging curves." But Miss 1909, while keeping a good, smooth fit to show the lines of her figure can have enough fullness so that she can walk seven steps without stopping to untwist herself and get a fresh start. And if she has pretty hands she hasn't got to cover 'em all up with sleeve points—she can even "wear her elbows."

—If they're pretty enough. More of the real live woman coming to view, you see.

Also—Mildly Autumn will resurrect her other eye. It was buried last winter under the mushrooms and in the summer under the peach baskets—but it will come forth at last in undimmed splendor. For the hat this fall will

COULD NOT CURE WEEPING ECZEMA

Disease Began over Ear and Spread till Face and Neck were Raw—Itching, Inflammation and Soreness were Terrible—Lasted Over a Year and All Treatments Failed

UNTIL CUTICURA AGAIN PROVED GREAT SUCCESS

"Eczema began over the top of my ear. It cracked and itched and spread. I had three different doctors and tried several things, but they did me no good. At last one side of my face and my neck clear up to my hair were raw. The water ran out of it so that I had to wear medicated cotton, and it was so inflamed and sore that I had to put a piece of cloth over my pillow to keep the water from it, and it would stain the cloth a sort of yellow. The eczema itched so that it seemed as though I could tear my face all to pieces. The disease began in the fall and I did everything for it until the next winter. Then I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and it was not more than three months before it was all healed up. I still use the Cuticura Resolvent Pills once in a while to cleanse the blood. I am very thankful that I tried Cuticura, and I can recommend it to any one. Miss Ann Persons, Northfield, Vt., Dec. 16, '07."

GOOD PROGRESS IN CHINA.
Minister Crane on Remarkable Advancement.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—"More progress has been made in China in the last five years than in any century previous, and it is this country's duty to see that the economical advancement is continued." Charles R. Crane, minister of the United States to China, thus summed up his views of the country in which he will represent the United States in an address at a luncheon given by the Illinois Manufacturers' association at the Congress hotel. Mr. Crane added: "I saw President Taft the other day, and told him of the various luncheons and receptions my friends were preparing for me, and asked him what I had better do about it. He said 'accept every one of them, and when you get there, insist on speaking, and speak in out red hot. It was one of President Taft's speeches at Shanghai that made me vote the Republican ticket the first time. President Taft's name is now widely known and more widely respected than the name of any foreigner in China."

Peruna Tablets Tested.

What are the Peruna Tablets good for? Has anybody used them enough to know what they will do? Read the following letter and see. If you have any doubt as to the genuineness of the letter, write to Mrs. Lohr, enclose a stamp for reply, and see whether her testimonial is genuine or not.

Ravenna, Mich., June 16, 1908.

The Peruna Drug Co.

In regard to the Peruna Tablets, I have used about ten boxes in all. While I was in Chicago my oldest daughter was bothered with a cough all the time. She has had it for four years. Sometimes it would go away, and in the winter time it was so bad that the doctors and professors said that she had consumption, and the only way to give her any relief was to perform an operation.

I spend so much money for different medicines, and for doctors also. Nothing seemed to help her.

So I saw the Peruna Tablets advertised in the paper, and I got a box and tried them. She could get some sleep by taking them. She would be up all night and cough. So in all she took six boxes, and never was bothered any more.

I will leave this for any one to inquire at our old residence, where we lived in Chicago. All our neighbors would say that she could not live with such a cough. You don't know how thankful I am. She is eighteen years old.

My oldest son also was bothered with his stomach, throwing up, and his bowels so loose all the time. He was all run down for four months. I also doctored with him. One would say this and the other something else. I started in to give him the Tablets, and now he is all right and healthy looking. He took four boxes. That is all he wants to take whenever anything ails him.

So I praise your Tablets just as high as I have your Peruna. That is all the medicine that ever comes in my house. Whenever I travel I take some with me. I have had three of my children sick with scarlet fever two months ago, and that is all I used, was the Peruna and the Tablets. I did not lose any of them.

If there is any more information you want, why just let me know and I will be glad to do so. Yours truly, confine itself to covering up the hair and the eyes will be left at large.
Mrs. L. LOHR, Ravenna, Mich.

Military at Head and Foot.

One said she was a queen, this demimode of fall days. Yes—but she might ride at the head of Her Majesty's Guards! For her hat is modelled Russian Cossack-wise—and her boots have the fur tops and fat tassels of those that swing in the stirrups over windy steppes.

Many persons will tell you those wise little suffragettes worked the trick. "Women can't go for soldiers, indeed!" they snuffed. "Just let the men see what nifty-looking soldiers we'll make."

And of course, won't-like, they began to prove their propensities at both ends. That accounts, say the wise ones, for the new fall hat. It doesn't go out—it goes up. In shape it seems to perform that impossible geometric feat of cupping the circle—really it is round, but it gives a curious impression of squareness. At one side is a bunch of quills or two or three stiff bows—all sticking up straight as the plumes in a helmet.

But, anyway, it doesn't put out the male escort's eyes, to begin with. And it does give him a chance to see both the pretty eyes and even the little curls on the forehead of dainty Miss Autumn, 1909.

If the young man is given the chance however—say when he puts on the skates for the first November skating—he'll take a peep at the swagger military boots milady wears. They are high, giving sensible support to the ankle, and they are anything except ugly—like so much "sensible" dress. For besides their fine lines, they have the sweetest little turnover top bands of fur, and just in front saucy gold tassels are knotted jauntily over the fur, adding decidedly to the military effect.

Outdoes Cinderella's Slipper.

When the autumn girl this year goes to country house dances she'll show that she has turned away the plain silk slippers she "quietly" affected last season and has matched the jewels on her frock with shining stones on her feet. Cinderella's glass affairs simply wouldn't be in it with the jet and cut steel and pearl wrought slippers the girl you may wait with tomorrow night will be wearing. And if you're lucky perhaps—just perhaps—you'll see a twinkle of scarlet and note that she chooses the color of Monsieur le Diable! Then of course some of the autumn girls will appear in new fads like the "seafish gown," that gives such a fine straight back and makes its owner appear slender or the renegade, as she wishes—sort of Janus bottle of a frock! And there's the "mannish" skirt, with its two creases imported from the trousers leg, and such other specialties that every fashion page will be bound to illustrate and define.

But here's the tout ensemble—Mildly Autumn of 1909 is NOT going to be the draped sleek mere man shuddered at a year ago. She's going to show lovely curves and fluffy gorgeousness and a snappy mock-mane swagger—in short, she is going to be a real woman!
